- Work as an editorial intern included copy editing, headline and caption writing and work with the publication's Content Management System. The daily staff meetings provided an opportunity to work with the editorial team to help plan and schedule content for the publication's website. Interns also have the option to pitch, write and report their own story ideas, including this piece on baseball and softball's prospects for readmission to the 2020 Olympic games. ("Why getting cut from the Olympics could actually help baseball")
