

Where to Find Epic (Last Minute) Spring Break Ideas

It's spring break! And if you haven't made plans already and you are in the middle of watching your millionth Dr. Phil rerun while eating the supersize bag of Fritos (hey, I can't be the only one), don't fret too much. There are still ways you can make your spring break an epic experience, even at the last minute.

1) StudentCity.com

Okay, are your bags packed? Your home station locked up tight (just don't lose your keys)? Well, get ready because StudentCity should be your first stop on figuring out where to go this Spring Break - and yes, there is still a chance. It gives you every opportunity to book your needed spring break-ation at the last minute. From hotel plans to others - and even if you can't get the spring break on, you can still plan for summer.

2) TravelZoo.com

There is still time! Have I said that enough? TravelZoo is offering nice discounts for your travel plans. So if you are thinking of taking advantage of the time you have left, make sure to check out this site first. Remember, sometimes procrastination pays off.

3) Alamo.com.

Road trip anyone? It really depends on your city of course, but there have been rumors of rates as low as $9/day for last minute spring break car rentals. So check the site out and you can have that epic vacation you've been dying to brag about next week.

4) LastMinuteTravel.com.

One of the things I like about this site is that it has pretty amazing coupons that you can use for your trips. Even if you want to stay at a hotel for the night and you know...have a responsible adult party type thing. Not to mention, if you check out the "deals " section, you can find out where you can really save on your next trip.

5) Groupon.com/Getaways

Okay, now I know Groupon has been around the block a few times, but just to let you know - it's still just as awesome as it always been. You can buy great getaways at really cheap deals - perfect for the student budget.

Now before your spring break gets away from you, take advantage of these last minute deal sites! It's a great way to finish off the week and have something to brag about on Monday.