

Remember the bleached-dyed jeans, the designs on pants, jeans and vests? How about the real short mini skirt your mother wouldn't let you wear outside of the house? Well it's all coming back, "the smashing '60's style clothing," says Tyrone Fukunagt, owner of the Parachute clothing boutique on Melrose Avenue in Hollywood.

What men will be seeing for spring clothing is the short bolero jackets (equality to the Spanish bull fighter) in black and gray, dark brown or tan for daytime and pastel colors for evening.

Men's shirts will be mostly made of cotton, rayon, and linen for day and evening will be made of silk. The colors are; light pinks, greens, blues or white.

"Shirts will not be baggy anymore," says Tim Wegemn of Fred Segals clothing store in Hollywood. "Shirts are more contour to the body structure and men's pants (except jeans) will have siletto slimmed down bottoms."

"The thin look is definitely in this spring for fashion," as Brent Morgan of Saks Fifth Avenue recently said.

Men's jeans will be flaired at the bottom and bleach dyed all over. The most popular colors for spring, white and blue, white and black, or ivory white with a dash of tan color in them.

"Jewelry for men is making a strong revival," says Brad Wagner owner of Fred Segal's clothing boutique. Men will be wearing a lot of turquoise in bracelets, necklaces, and rings. Beads and rhinestones are also very popular in men's jewelry for spring. Two-tone jewelry such as gold and silver will be blended together for an elegant evening look. "For that very special man in your life, men can add starr-studded diamonds to their gold/silver necklaces and bracelets," says Tracy Avedon of Avedon's boutique in Hollywood.

Vests are another popular item of the '60's craze. Most suits will not be complete without a matching vest. Vests for daytime are short to match bolero jackets. Colors range from black to pastel colors and are mostly made of polyester. Vests for men to relax in or for evening wear will be long. Most long vests will be made of suede, leather or blue dinem with colorful stitching or embroidery on the sides of the vests.

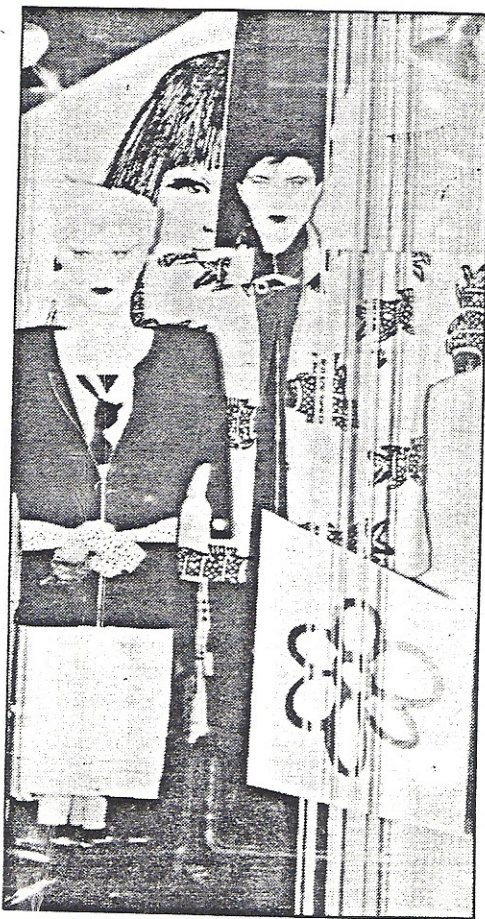

Shoes for men will be your basic conservative daytime (business) shoes in tan, black or white. After hours, the man in your life can lounge in short mocassin boots made of suede or sheepskin with a lot of embroidery on the boots.

"Men's cowboy boots in jet black, dark dusty brown, sand color are very popular for spring," says Linda Jade of the Broadway department store in Brea.

Mostly men's belts will be wide and made of suede or leather. If you really want to get wild and get into the groove, men can buy a neon tie in hot pink, twisted green, purple or orange. Usually neon ties can spice up a dull business suit or jazz up an evening outfit. The look is flashy, daring and totally funky.
