

zippers on the sides, pockets, back and front of the pants and at the bottom of the pants. Expect to find several zippers on a jumpsuit. Jumpsuits for daytime are cotton in pastel colors for evening in dark colors with pleats. Suede will be in day or night jumpsuits for women. Most colors are leaning toward the soft to dark browns.

With short dresses or short mini's, women can expect to find long matching jackets or long cardigan matching sweaters that button down the front to complete the spring look.

Women's shoes will have a small heel and pointed toes. The colors are pastel or potka dots to match her outfit. Also, women's boots are hot for spring. The boots are thigh boots or up to the knee with a lot of zippers. Women's boots are usually made of leather and suede. Popular for spring is the mocassin boots that tie up to your thigh.

"This type of mocassin boot sells quite often in the springtime," says Lynn Marikisaine of George Allen shoe store in South Coast Plaza. Shoes will be wide low-heeled mostly with some straps or buckles and low-heeled or no heel for boots.

Hot pants are alive and a great revival of the '60's generation. Hot pants with a matching short top and a maxi trench coat is perfect for the evening stroll down the street.

Women's vests are short for daytime with suits of knit or polyester in pastel colors. For evening vest hooks straight together with chains in white, blue, pink, brown and green. Some of the women's vests will have fringe, dangling from it.

Women's purses are big and bulky in white and pastel colors. Women's belts are twisted, coarse, cross-shadowed and if you really want something different belts can have fringe to match your matching vest or matching fringed coat. The colors are mostly browns but also dark purple or dark reds. The material is either suede, leather or silk for evening wear.

The midriff is alive - long, skinny and sexy. The erotic zone of the '60's center cinchers, wide belts that are at least three inches, finish the dressy look for day wear. Another exciting trend is patchwork pantsuits for daytime or nighttime.

Women's lingerie is lacy and very tantalizing for te seductive lover in her life. It's very lacy (some with padded shoulders) short teddies. Colors are very soft pastels or rich bright reds all the way from dark burgundy to lustful, rich red. Strapless looks are in with matching hose for night wear. The trend is to wear your silk or satin teddy underneath your day wear for that feminine look and because silk feels very soothing next to the body. Liquid satin or silk is a new material on the market in lingerie for women that is washable and going to replace many of the natural silk and satins that has to be dry-cleaned daily. It will eventually replace silk and satin blouses in day wear and saves you money on dry cleaning expenses. "This is a fabulous material that lasts after every washing and feels just as good as silk or satin would next to your body," says Karsten Pelick of the Private Moments lingerie shop in Brea.

Women's hosiery this spring is very lacy and surprising for many women. You can get hose in flower designs, an array of bright colors (pink, blue, green, purple, orange and yellow) all on the same hose. Or comic strip hose of Garfield, Doonesbury, and also Pop Art of the '60's to wear with your hot pants.

Women's jewelry will have a tremendous amount of turquoise in bracelets, necklaces and rings. Zircons and rhinestones for earrings and jade and beads of every color will be in for spring.

Pearls will be worn a lot with sweaters and evening wear. Either single, double, triple or double winged. Big hoop earrings in different shades of colors are available for spring. Silver is very popular among women in jewelry, especially for evening use. "You will find a lot of silver in jewelry and belts," says a May Co. department store representative.

Women's colognes are soft and flowery. The most used or predicted to be used is Opium, Paris, by Yves Saint Laurent, Chloe, Tatium, Avais, White Shoulders by Estee Lauder and Cinnabar, or a new fragrance on the market just recently called Design, by Paul Sebastian.

Women's hats will be very big brimmed in various colors. Either closed head or open headed hats are in. And women's hair style will be very long to the waist or a bubble-cut type of style. The type you would find on most old Barbie dolls.
