These sites, which typically use a "vanity domain name" aren't just good for the ego -- they can be useful tools for job hunts and when trying to connect with sources.

The reason for these interviews is to connect with people and communicate towards better ways to create innovations and a better life for everyone who is involved.

The world has so many issues, good journalism can help to make these problems be seen and be changed by people in power.

This platform : WhoWhereWhat.TV was initiated in Holland / The Netherlands by Stijn C.R.E.C.Gabeler
The concept was to make GO DO GOOD / GODOGOOD a better working foundation and platform for everyone.
Helping people in need starts with finding the people, asking the questions about where they are and what they do and what we can do.

Publishing about these issue's will make it easier for people to understand the problem and to relate to the answers and solutions on these questions.

Controlling life means, finding ways to make it easier, better and safer for everyone.

This platform has the mission to work on a safe and secure way on journalistic approach in reaching out for a story and a way to solve any problem.

Connecting people and asking them for questions that can lead to a dialogue that will work towards solutions is part of our way to work attitude.

Affection, Appreciation and Acceptation are important in the way to find a story and a solution.
