

“I contribute to the Foundation, because I want to ensure future radiologists have the same opportunities to advance the specialty and make a difference.”

Dear [[Prefix]] [[insert LAST name]]:

Changes in today’s health care have impacted every facet of the medical profession. From the way health care is administered to the rapid technological advances in medical imaging, radiology is experiencing dramatic changes.

The radiology community has risen to meet these challenges by working to advance radiologic science through research and education. You can help in that mission.

A donation to the RSNA Research & Education Foundation equips the next generation of researchers and educators with the resources they need for the challenges of the future.

I am grateful of the initial support I received from the RSNA R&E Foundation, which led to subsequent funding from the NIH to further my research. In addition, volunteering for the RSNA has been integral to my professional growth, providing the opportunity to meet researchers from across the country. I contribute to the Foundation, because I want to ensure future radiologists have the same opportunities to advance the specialty and make a difference.

In 2018, the R&E Foundation funded $4 million in grants to talented investigators at 52 different institutions. Thanks to our individual, private practice and corporate donors, the Foundation was able to fund 35% of the applications submitted.

But our work is not done.

An R&E Foundation grant can spark a life-long career of scientific inquiry in the radiologic sciences. With your donation, you’re making a commitment to advance radiology research, and you’re giving back to the profession that’s given you so much.

We are immensely grateful for your donation. As you know, radiology advancements are occurring faster than ever. Help the profession keep pace by donating now.

Sincerely,

Thomas M. Grist, MD
Chair, Board of Trustees
